Solatrium

Chris Bowers (20:00, Asheville, NC)

Official Selection

A short film from the creators of Moon Europa, this film pushes the boundaries of guerrilla D.I.Y. filmmaking by combining lush cinematography, a gorgeous and glitchy soundtrack, and sets and wardrobe made entirely from found and recycled materials. Bria Living, a female astronaut, attempts to cure her regret and ennui by abusing her medication. Little does she know she is the test subject for Nevco Corporation who is developing the experimental drug Solatrium.

The Lark

Paul Farmer (75:00, United Kingdom)

1st Place Feature Film

Niamh's world is a nightmare, a seemingly endless maze in which every corridor disappears into an infinite darkness that can suddenly part to reveal uncanny scenes and characters. Niamh has made a home here for her children, a shelter from a poisonous world outside, where they live under the protection of the strange friends Niamh has found here, while she tries to discover a way they can all escape to safety. But then the balance of the nightmare is disturbed by intruders from outside. The violent Jackson and the prying Siobhan claim to have come here in search of a missing friend. But the truth seems to be very different. The newcomers have plans for Niamh that could lead them all to disaster.
